Dear Mr. Dulles:

Confirming Miss Hensey's telephone conversation with you yesterday, we are definitely interested in publishing the Gisevius manuscript under the Doubleday & Company, Inc. imprint, and herewith offer you a contract for it.

As Miss Hensey explained, the amount of the advance which we can offer we feel should be decided after we have had an opportunity to examine the rest of the material, which we understand is now en route from Germany. We assure you that we will advise you of the amount of the advance immediately after we have had an opportunity to see the additional material, which should not take more than two days after it reaches our hands.

Yours very sincerely,

Kenneth McCormick
